Rather, speaking the truth in love, we are to grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ, from whom the whole body, joined and knit together... Ephesians 4:15-16

Dear Allen Temple Family,

One of the front line casualties of our struggling economy is the American family. The family is under attack as a result of the increased unemployment rate, home foreclosures, escalating healthcare costs, and reduced funding for education, childcare, and seniors assistance programs.

However, the crisis state of the American family did not begin with the aforementioned negative economic conditions; family stability in our society has been under attack for some time. Since World War II, we have seen dramatic increases in divorces, out of wedlock births, and juvenile delinquency, and we are alarmed by the high incidence of domestic violence and drug abuse which destructively tear at the very fabric of family.

In view of these distressing conditions, it is the responsibility of churches to redouble our efforts to provide holistic support and nurturing to our families to help them survive and thrive under the very difficult circumstances of our day. During this quarter, we are teaching, preaching, and praying with emphasis on the family. We will be sharing family intervention resources which are available in our church and community, and will be encouraging families to take advantage of them. We will culminate this quarter with a church and community conference on the family, which will occur from September 28- October 2.

However, it is most important that each of us prayerfully look into our own lives and assess what we can do to partner with God to strengthen our own families and to better the status of families in our world.
